

Source: John Milner Associates, Inc.

Photo 1: Much of the Mount Gilead property is characterized by relatively level topography, particularly the lawn area north and east of the house. (09_MG-cem-to-house)

Source: John Milner Associates, Inc.

Photo 2: View of Thames Creek as it runs through a culvert near the Havener House. (75_Havener-stream)

Source: John Milner Associates, Inc.

Photo 5: Many of the views toward adjacent condominiums and townhouses are screened with evergreen plantings, such as this view north. (21_MG-view-to-condos)

Source: John Milner Associates, Inc.

Photo 6: View to the new single-family homes across Mount Gilead Road from the north lawn. (03_MG-west-view-to-housing)

Source: John Milner Associates, Inc.

Photo 7: Panoramic views are afforded from the Spindle House area looking eastward. (51_Mt-Gilead-Inter)

Source: John Milner Associates, Inc.

Photo 8: Southern magnolia-lined entrance drive, marked by a pair of stone entrance pillars and an iron gate, leading to the Mount Gilead House. (JMA_04)

Source: John Milner Associates, Inc.

Photo 9: Mulch trail leading through the woodland area between the Spindle and Mount Gilead Houses. (60_Mulch-trail-one)

Source: John Milner Associates, Inc.

Photo 10: An allée of Southern magnolia trees edges the Mount Gilead entrance drive. (B_440_MG_driveway)

Source: John Milner Associates, Inc.

Photo 11: Mature specimen plantings dot the Mount Gilead House lawn. (19_MG-view-NE)

Source: John Milner Associates, Inc.

Photo 12: Mature boxwood shrubs form outdoor garden rooms in the vicinity of the Mount Gilead House. (23_MG_boxwood-poodle)

Source: John Milner Associates, Inc.

Photo 13: Foundation plantings edge the porch of the north façade and the sides of the Mount Gilead House. (24_MG-porch)

Source: John Milner Associates, Inc.

Photo 14: A small, rectangular, open area enclosed by boxwoods and yews edges the Mount Gilead House to the rear. (28_MG-house-W)